Jeff and interested parties,

After attending last Tuesday nights City Council meeting and hearing just how bad the situatin is for the first time since accepting my position on the board of directors and having this all come to a head within the first week of my participation, I am submitting my resignation from the Philomath Community Services board of directors. In years past, I have served as the President of this board when it was in it's infancy, which was far different than todays operations. I probably should have seen the depth of this boards actions far sooner and moved on some time ago but felt a need to participate and contribute my efforts as a part of the board. During my very short time on the board I have heard and seen issues involving changes to the organization and facilities. Since my involvement in 1996-7 this entity has grown and evolved into a wonderful part of our community, serving and effecting many. This has been acomplished with a corroborative effort between the board under Jeff Lambs leadership and an incredible group of volunteers both on the board and running the programs. I believe that the PCS facility is second to none. The programs are excellent. That said there are conflicted personalities and territorial issues that have arisen. The sad fact that certain individuals have chosen to make these issues public and political has made volunteerism much less than fun for all. Life is too short to participate in something like this with little or no personal satisfaction and/or appreciation. I wish you all good luck in resolving the issues at hand.

Respectfully,

Neal S. Munson
