Hi, Jeff:

I'm working on a story about the new PCS officers elected last night and wanted to touch base with you this afternoon.

From reading your guest opinion piece on today's editorial page, it's clear that you're asking people to support Marti as the new president.

Yes I'm encouraging my friends and supporters to work with Marti Barlow and the new board members.

I'm not entirely clear about your status as a PCS board member. Has your board term expired? Are you resigning from the board? Or do you intend to continue serving as a board member?

As my editorial pointed out the transition plan # 4 or #5 was not approved by the new board, (you can view both plans on the webpage if they're still there) therefore I am not part of the board any longer. No I did not resign from the board. No I can not continue to serve as a board member, that would have only been possible if the board approved one of the transition plans that would have allowed me to stay on as past president and that didn't happen.

I also have the same questions about your wife's board status, and whether she intends to stay on as program manager for Holiday Cheer.

No Debbie did not resign and she's no longer on the board.

Hope to hear from you before 5 p.m. today.

Last I heard they were thinking of calling off the workshop and the end of January with Cheryl Good & Associates. Marti now speaks for PCS so you'd need to talk to Cheryl or Marti on that issue.

Thanks very much, Jeff --

I'm really not feeling too good today so I can't do a phone interview with you.

Jeff
